PRESIDENT GEORGE W. RIGHTMIRE
WHO WAS ACTIVE IN COLLECTING
THE UNIVERSITY'S WAR RECORDS AND APPROVED THE PUBLICATION OF THESE VOLUMES.

P R E F A C E

At Commencement in June, 1917, an alumnus mentioned to the President of the Ohio State University Association the desirability of having complete records of the military and naval service of the students, former students, and graduates of the University. Acting at once upon the suggestion, he took up the matter with President Thompson, who soon appointed a committee consisting of Edith D. Cockins, '94, Nan Cannon, '01, George W. Rightmire, '95, Joseph S. Myers, '87, William L. Graves, '93, and Wilbur H. Siebert, '88, to formulate plans, draw up a blank form for the desired data, and collect the records. The committee operated in large part through the Registrar's office, where two assistants were assigned to the work.

Many names came in from the departments of the University, as also from the fraternity chapters, the clubs, and the other student organizations. Items in The Ohio State Lantern, The Ohio State University Monthly, other campus publications, and the press at large furnished additional names. But the committee made a systematic effort to secure the records of the men at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio; Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Alabama; the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Waukegan, Wisconsin; and Camp Custer, Battle Creek, Michigan. Representatives of the committee visited these camps and obtained many registrations. In February, 1918, its delegation spent two days at Camp Sherman in the "huts" maintained by the Young Men's Christian Association and the Knights of Columbus, starting the work there in a substantial way. The commanding officer was requested to issue an order directing all Ohio State University men in the camp to appear on certain days at the huts for registration. The order was read at company formations, posted in barracks, and mentioned in the huts, where a supply of blanks was left. The secretaries in charge of the huts and some of the officers of the camp, with whom the members of the committee became acquainted, cooperated cordially in securing registrations. Much the same program was followed at the other camps. In some places, however, local Ohio State Associations interested themselves in obtaining registrations. For example, the New York Association appointed a committee to attend to the registration of the men in the camps near New York City, and a great many names came in from that source. However, the work was greatly impeded in several of those camps by the fact that they were ports of embarkation.

By subsequent correspondence with the parents of the enlisted men additional information was obtained and in many cases complete records for those mustered out soon after the signing of the armistice. In numerous instances, however, it was still impossible to complete the records.

In May, 1918, a war-service number of The Ohio State University Monthly was issued, giving the names of about twenty-four hundred men in the various branches of the service and halftone portraits of many of the officers. At Commencement in the following June an immense service flag containing twenty-six hundred and forty gold stars was presented by the Ohio State University Association, the oration being given by Lowry F. Sater, '95. It was unfurled from the top of the east front of the Library building and hung down to the doors as a great panel of red. President Thompson received it for the University in an appropriate and stirring address.

The American University Center in Paris was a source of some information, and a periodical published by the 166th Regiment of the 42nd (Rainbow) Division furnished a number of names. The University records showed the names of many students enlisted in the Medical, Dental, and Veterinary Reserve Corps and in the Students' Army Training Corps on the campus. Miss Edith D. Cockins as chairman of the University's committee supervised the work of compilation until in the summer of 1921.

By action of the Board of Trustees on August 2 of that year Professors Osman C. Hooper and Wilbur H. Siebert were appointed editors of the second volume of the History of the University. It was already apparent to these "editors" that the University's part in the Great War would require a volume, probably of several parts, by itself. And this plan was soon adopted. Thus Professor Siebert took over the task of completing the compilation of war records, bringing to date numbers of those already accumulated, and writing the story of the University's war activities. He added numerous new records, being assisted in this work by the Official Roster of Ohio Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, World War, 1917-18, issued in twenty-three large volumes by the Adjutant General's office of Ohio. As many of the Ohio State men lived in other states at the time of their enlistment and as we had only incomplete records of some of them, if we had any, it was necessary to apply to the Adjutant General of nearly every state in the Union for records. The fact that a few of our men joined Canadian troops before the United States entered the war will explain the necessity of sending to the War Office of the Dominion Government for records in these instances.

Even so, it was still found that there was a residuum of some eight hundred names for which there were only fragmentary records, or none at all. Completed records for these names were obtained from the War Department in Washington. President Rightmire authorized the employment of an assistant familiar with the record files in the Department to search out these names, copy the records, and send them to us. Application was even made to the British War Office, and in one case to the Russian Government.

The result of these efforts is to be found in the following alphabetical list, as also in the Faculty and Administration List, the Citations and Decorations List, and the Roll of Honor, which gives the records of those men who lost their lives in action or in line of duty.

The delay in the publication of this Roster, which has been in the printer's hands since May, 1929, has been due to the effect of the depression upon the University's finances.

OHIO STATE'S RANK IN WAR SERVICE AMONG THE UNIVERSITIES

According to the survey of land grant colleges and universities, published about January 1, 1931, by the United States Office of Education at Washington, Ohio State University was second only to Cornell in the number of officers and men who served in the Great War and who had received their military training in land grant institutions. Thirty-nine colleges and universities supplied the data relating to the war service of alumni, former students, and undergraduates for this part of the report. Cornell was first among these thirty-nine with 6,850 officers and enlisted men in the army, navy, and marine corps. Of these 3,030 were officers and 3,820 were men. Ohio State was reported to be in second place with 6,561 officers and enlisted men, of whom 1,959 were officers and 4,602 were in the ranks.

A careful revision of the war service statistics of Ohio State increases the totals of its officers and enlisted men by only thirty-two, the number of officers being 2,777 and of men 3,814. These totals do not include the non-Ohio State men who took training in the Schools of Military Aeronautics on this campus as pilots, adjutants, and balloon officers. These numbered 2,397.

Other colleges among the first ten as to total number of men in the Great War, according to the survey, were: the University of Illinois with 6,920; the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical Institute with 5,723; the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with 5,619; the University of California with 4,158; Iowa State College with 4,110; the University of Minnesota with 3,527; the University of Tennessee with 2,875; and the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical Institute with 2,300.

The University of Illinois supplied the largest number of officers, namely 3,280, while Cornell was second with 3,030. In point of rank, Kansas State Agricultural College led with four major-generals; the University of Illinois had two major-generals and four brigadier-generals; the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, two major-generals and three brigadiers; Ohio State, one major-general and four brigadiers. In the number of men holding the next three ranks Massachusetts Institute surpassed the others, with its 30 colonels, 48 lieutenant-colonels, and 207 majors.

Among the colleges and universities listed, Cornell had the most war dead with 240. It was followed in order by the University of Illinois with 181; Ohio State with 135 (revised figure); Iowa State College with 118, and Massachusetts Institute with 110.

Of the Ohio State dead 68 were officers and 61 in the ranks. These included 65 officers and 48 enlisted men in the army, three officers and 12 men in the navy, and two enlisted men in the Marine Corps. There were also two applicants for military service and four in civilian war service among the Ohio State dead, bringing the total up to 135 men in the University's Roll of Honor.

According to the survey, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Ohio State University led during the academic year 1928-1929 in the number of students enrolled in military education with 3,596, being followed in order by the University of Illinois with 3,371; the University of Minnesota with 2,913; the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical Institute with 2,669; Pennsylvania State College with 1,966, and Cornell University with 1,903. The enrollment in the Ohio State University R.O.T.C. for the autumn quarter of 1930 was 3,736. It is understood at this institution that the Ohio State unit is still the largest at any of the land grant colleges.
